

I am the founding Program Director at Mount Sinai Medical Center (MSMC) of Florida's Anesthesiology Residency Program (2014). I completed my training in 2003 and joined Miami Beach Anesthesiology Associates (MBAA) at Mount Sinai Medical Center in Miami Beach. During my tenure, I have held the privilege in leadership as the director of education and have worked with the University of Miami/Jackson Memorial Hospital's Department of Anesthesiology and Florida International University School of Medicine. Additionally, our department has intimate relationships with all 3 nurse anesthetist programs in south Florida (Barry, UM, and FIU).

In addition, at MSMC, I have been on the Medical Executive Committee and currently serve on the Medical Staff Quality Assurance Committee. I completed my medical residency in Tampa, Florida at the University of South Florida (USF). While at USF, I was elected as chief resident and developed appreciation for teaching and involvement with scholarly activity. Training in one city and practicing in another has given me insight into differences between physician practices each landscape presents throughout our great state.
